

MEDICAL TRANSPORTATION TO FIT YOUR NEEDS

PLATFORMS

If a patient is critically ill or injured, they may need immediate transport to specialty hospitals located throughout our region. Mercy Flights offers numerous modes of transportation, including fixed wing, rotor wing, and critical care ambulance transport for interfacility and on-scene response in Oregon and the bordering four states.

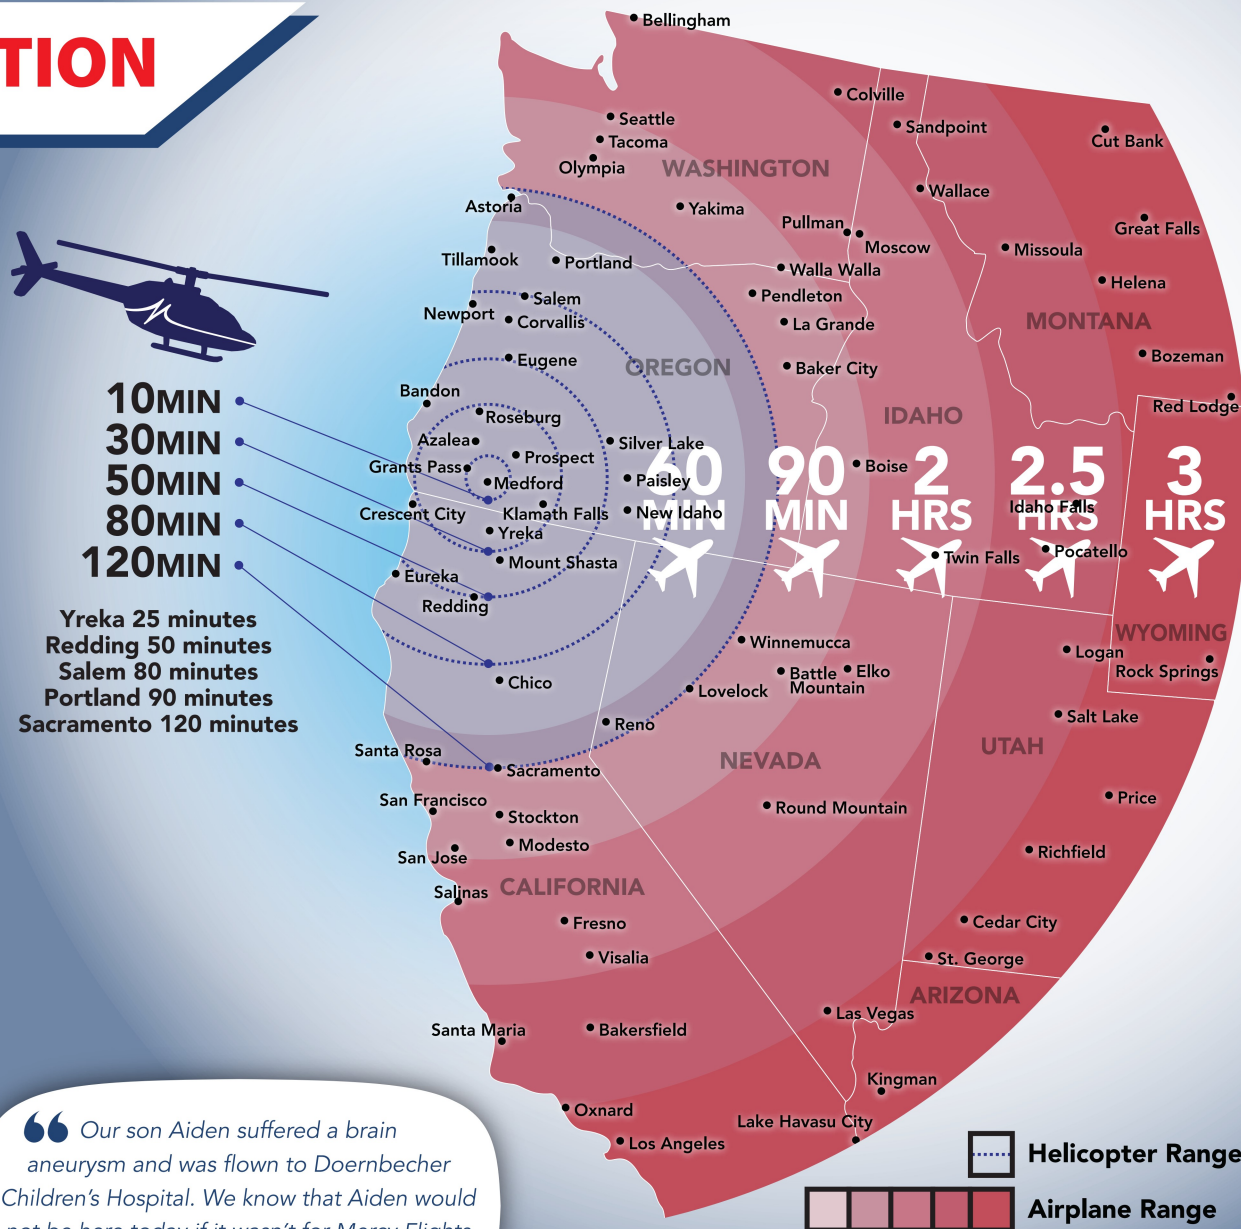

SPECIALIZED COMMUNICATIONS CENTER

Our Communications Center coordinates the logistics of the patient's transport with the requesting and receiving facilities, as well as the Critical Care Team. Furthermore, our Communications Center utilizes advanced tracking technology and monitors all medical transports, providing accurate arrival and departure times.

- Proving accurate arrival and departure times
- Our Communications Center is open 24/7/365.

“ Our son Aiden suffered a brain aneurysm and was flown to Doernbecher Children’s Hospital. We know that Aiden would not be here today if it wasn’t for Mercy Flights and their fast action. ”

-Sharee Barber, mother.

ELEVATED RESOURCES

Our Critical Care Flight Team is comprised of a Critical Care Flight Paramedic (FPC) and a Critical Care Flight RN (CFRN). The rigorous required certification and advanced training of the Critical Care Team help to assure the highest quality of patient care, while also providing transport for infants to adults, effectively managing patients who are critically ill or injured.

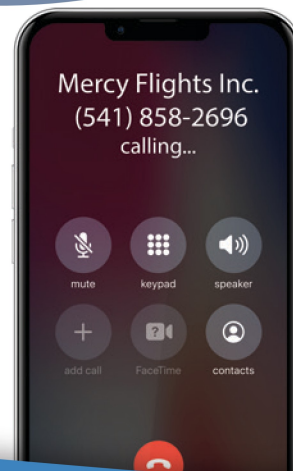

Leading the region, our clinical capabilities include:

- Complex cardiac, stroke, and trauma care
- Advanced airway management
- Multi-mode ventilator management
- Administrations of blood products (carry two units of PRBC's)
- Multiple IV pumps
- Invasive cardiac and neurological monitoring
- Central line hemodynamic monitoring
- Swan-Ganz catheter monitoring
- High-Flow Nasal Cannula (HFNC) administration
- LVAD management

All care is provided under the direction of our medical director, who is available for consultation with our medical crew if needed for complex or unique patient transport.
